Dead and Buried.

W. R. Freeman, architect and civil engineer, of this city died yesterday at his residence, corner Maverick and Cypress streets and was buried today. Deceased well known as a civil engineer, and it was under his direction that the first work was done in the waterworks constructions of this city. He was appointed superintending architect of the federal building of this city when the republican party came into power, and was otherwise well and favorably known in his porfession. He died of dropsy in the 45th year of his life, leaving a wife and two children.